TWO WEEKS.
CALLS AND TEXTS ONLY.

No feeds, no scrolling, no browsing on the go. Your phone goes back to being a phone. Print this, fill it in by hand, and stick it somewhere you'll see it every day.

MY COMMITMENT

Name _____ Start date _____ Finish date (start + 14 days) _____

Who I'm telling (so they know why I've gone quiet) _____

BEFORE YOU START: HOW DO YOU FEEL TODAY?

Circle a number. 1 = very poor, 10 = excellent. You'll answer the same questions on day 14.

Mood	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Focus	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Sleep	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Calm	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

THREE THINGS I'LL DO WITH THE TIME I GET BACK

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

THE RULES

- ☐ Turn off mobile data and Wi-Fi on your phone, or use a blocking app to do it for you.
- ☐ Calls and texts stay on. You can still be reached.
- ☐ Need the internet? Use a laptop or computer, sitting down, on purpose.
- ☐ Tick one box on page 2 every night. Not on a screen. On this paper.
- ☐ Slip up? Don't start over. Pick it back up and keep going.

Based on a 2025 study published in PNAS Nexus: after two weeks without mobile internet, 71% of people reported better mental health and attention improved for most.

TICK ONE BOX EVERY NIGHT

Write the date, tick the box, and jot down one thing you did with the time instead.
